

A new feature of the website and a benefit for ETHA members has been launched today!

As a benefit of membership in ETHA, the website will now have a special page where members can announce the release of new books or provide one place where links to all their publications can be found. We want to call attention to the outstanding scholarship of ETHA members and make it easy to order books from their respective publishers.

New publications will be added as they are received and placed at the top of the web page. Other entries following those will be alphabetized by author's last name. For ETHA members who have published multiple works, we can create a single Author Listing which can link to a PDF with information about their collective body of work.

Book Listings will link to a publisher page or other site where the book can be purchased. Author listings will link to a PDF file that can contain whatever the author wants to share. It can include photos of the book covers, book abstracts, and web links to publishers or other purchase options. Authors can submit a PDF page of their own design or use the ETHA Author Listing Template* and one will be created for you.

To maintain the site and keep it current, we will count on each member to submit the information needed in a format that includes the necessary details to create the book listing. It will be important for authors to provide all the requested information to make the updating process as smooth as possible.

This is a work in progress so keep checking back for updates. We hope that this will be a service of ETHA which will benefit our members by highlighting their excellent work, as well as providing information to others interested in these topics.
